

Become a YI Champion!

Who We Are: Young Invincibles is a new group of 18-34 year olds from across the country committed to making sure that young Americans are heard in the debate over health care reform. We aim to tell the truth about how the current system fails young people, dispel the myth that we don't care about health care, and add our voices to the millions of Americans demanding change.

Where You Fit In: YI Champions are the heart of the Young Invincibles outreach and social-networking strategy. We are relying on you to help us spread the word about YI, build our membership through our website and Facebook collect stories, and create and collect our picture petitions for reform. We hope you will participate in the YI Want Health Care Day on October 13 by visiting your local Congressional office, or even better – meeting us in DC to tell Congress you want reform directly!

Each week, YI Champions will:

- Receive a special YI Champions newsletter that includes news about recent campaign developments.
- Be given a YI Champions Goal of the Week, such as “find two friends to pledge their facebook/gchat status to www.younginvincibles.org.”

Where We're Going: As a Young invincible, you're joining a dynamic movement that is growing both on the ground, and the web. To demonstrate just how passionate young people are about health care reform, we launched the YI Want Change photo petition drive. Through our website and supporters like you, we're mobilizing people nationwide to upload their picture along with a statement advocating change in our broken system. This will allow us to put a face on the enormous silent majority out there who support reform but remain invisible to the media and DC. Your work will ensure that when Young Invincibles visit DC on October 13 for the YI Want Health Care Day, our elected officials will hear our voices loud and clear. But it can't happen without you! The coming months are going to be pivotal for health care reform- and as YI Champion you can have a real impact on this historic debate.

Email YIChampions@YoungInvincibles.org to sign-up or if you have any questions.